

FREE MARKETING, SALES AND TECHNICAL SUPPORT

We don't understand why other warranty providers ask you to pay for their marketing material, so when you request a flag, site board sticker or any other promotional material from Premier Guarantee it will be provided completely free of charge. Also, if you have any specific requirements for your site advertising, let us know and we'll do our best to accommodate this too.

We'll also provide you and your sales staff with free training and support on our warranties and other services, allowing you to ensure your clients are fully aware of the features of the cover on your properties. Hopefully this will result in a better service for the buyer and more sales for the developer.

Technical support training also comes completely free of charge and we can provide you with a single point of contact for all your technical support enquiries, who'll know everything about the needs of you, your company and your developments.

For further information on our range of marketing, sales and technical support, contact Chris Reynolds, our Marketing Manager by phone or email chris@premierguarantee.co.uk

Have your say...

The new Premier Guarantee website is designed around you.

With information on each of our warranty schemes, our Building Control services and our range of developer support services such as Code for Sustainable Homes assessments and Home Information Packs.

You can also request quotations and download a range of marketing and support literature, including homeowner documents and product guides.

We're introducing new changes all the time, and to help us create a site and a level of service that's right for you we've created a feedback form where you can leave comments or suggestions. To have your say visit:
